Fernando Senar Morera is a predoctoral researcher at the University of Lleida. In 2017 he finished his Psychology studies at the Universitat Jaume I (Castellón). That same year he began his master's studies in brain and behavior research. After completing these studies, a year later, he began to collaborate with the consolidated research group "Language and Education" (ref. no. 2017 SGR 322) through a research contract.

In 2020, he was awarded an AGAUR grant by the Generalitat de Catalunya to start his doctoral studies in that same group, collaborating in the R+D+I project "Acculturation profiles and linguistic acculturation of descendants of migrants. Challenges and potential for language learning and socio-educational integration" (ref no. EDUC2017-82479-R). During this time, he has written several articles related to the acquisition of linguistic competences by immigrant students and has taught in the subject of Psychology of the Life Cycle of the Degree in Psychology.
